Message from the President

Welcome to the 2019 Alaska Broadcasters Association Convention in Anchorage, Alaska. Our convention committee has worked hard to “Bring the World Together” with a program featuring motivational speakers, breakout sessions, and vendors that we hope will help you learn, grow and thrive in the broadcast industry – whether you’re in sales, management, news, programming, or engineering. Over the next several days, we encourage you to interact with your fellow broadcasters from around the state, share ideas, and visit with friends both old and new.

Friday evening’s Goldie Awards Banquet will be our opportunity to celebrate the best of the best in Alaskan broadcasting, hosted by that dynamic duo from Fairbanks – Alaska Broadcaster Hall of Famers Glen Anderson and Jerry Evans. Who knows what fun they have in store for us this year!

What we do as broadcasters truly matters and we could not do it as effectively without our association. The ABA’s mission is to provide assistance for our members through education, representation, and advocacy. We provide the Alternative Inspection Program, yearly Intern Grants, educational opportunities, and FCC updates. Our association is funded primarily through membership fees and the NCSA program. This year we have been fortunate for the Alaska Army National Guard’s participation and we want to be sure to thank all of the stations that have supported this program by airing these announcements throughout the year. In fact, we have received positive feedback from the Guard that recruitment is up in Alaska.

In looking back on this past year, it has been a “shaky” one in more ways than one, starting with the magnitude 7.1 earthquake that hit South Central Alaska on November 30th. This event left no doubt that the broadcast industry continues to play a vital role in getting critical information out to the public in emergency situations. Radio and television news coverage was immediate and constant, despite some of the stations being knocked off the air and displaced from their buildings!

Although it was not another earthquake, the state budget has been another source of shaky ground, especially for our public broadcasters, who despite the elimination of state funding continue to find more ways to collaborate and serve their communities with much needed news and information.

In February, a small group of ABA Board Members and our Executive Director attended the annual NAB Leadership Conference. We were able to meet with Senator Murkowski, Senator Sullivan, and Congressman Young and their staffs. We are pleased to share that we have their support and understanding on the issues and challenges that we face as Alaska broadcasters. When our DC delegation come back for visits to Alaska, we encourage you to invite them to your stations and continue the conversation.

At the helm of our association is Executive Director Cathy Hiebert. Newsletters, training seminars, job postings, legislative news, and convention planning – she does it all - on behalf of and for every one of you. So if you have a chance during the convention, tell her thank you.

Lastly, thank you for what you do. What we do really matters and I am proud to be a broadcaster and have enjoyed serving on the Board of Directors and as ABA President this year. Some days we tend to forget how much fun our industry can be, so have a great time!

2019 ABA SPEAKERS

Author & Speaker Aaron Davis has shared with over a million people and is a leading authority & expert on the importance of having a Positive Attitude! From the age of 8, he was helping his Dad work in the evenings as a janitor. Through this experience, Aaron learned the importance of having a Champion Attitude no matter what your role or title is. Through mopping floors, cleaning bathrooms, emptying out hundreds of trashcans nightly, Aaron learned that it's not WHAT you do instead it's HOW you do it! With Aaron, you won't get just another speaker "telling" others how to be successful. He's in the trenches every day with his own consulting & speaking firm (Aaron Davis Presentations), and also serves as Chief Outreach Director for Amptnow.com, a software platform that provides employee engagement solutions for several industries. As a member of the 1994 National Championship Nebraska Football team and working with numerous corporations & organizations, he understands firsthand what it takes to perform like a champion & experience incredible results both personally & professionally by maintaining a positive Attitude! He's a proud University of Nebraska alumnus earning his degree in Psychology, and Aaron and his wife reside in Nebraska with their two sons and daughter.

Chris Lytle, best-selling author of The Accidental Salesperson and The Accidental Sales Manager, was born in Newark, Ohio, and graduated from Baldwin-Wallace College with a political science degree in 1972. After working as an intern in Congress, Lytle returned to Newark, where he hoped to secure a news position at a local radio station. Instead, he was offered a sales job, which he accepted, changing the course of his career forever. Lytle started his own business in 1982 and has spent the last thirty-five years delivering domestic and international seminars to salespeople and their managers. He has offered training to Fortune 500 companies and start-ups in the technical, financial, and service industries. After fifteen years in Chicago, he moved to Chattanooga in April of this year with his business partner and wife, Sarah McCann.

A self-described "recovering" news director, Kevin Benz is well-known as an inspiring, engaging speaker. He coaches thousands of journalists and dozens of newsrooms around the country with his own style of pragmatic, ethical craft. His 30 years in newsrooms and on the streets provide a unique understanding of what journalists need. He's a bit media trailblazer and innovator. Kevin launched two of the most innovative media organizations in the country — News 8 Austin, a 24-hour local news channel; and CultureMap Austin, the most read digital lifestyle magazine of the city. Kevin began his career in broadcast journalism as an award-winning news photographer and followed a path to becoming a nationally recognized journalism leader — serving 12 years as news director in Austin. His teams received national recognition from the most prestigious organizations including the Sigma Delta Chi awards, the National Edward R. Murrow award, three National Walter Cronkite awards for excellence in Political Journalism and the DuPont-Columbia Awards. Kevin's personal honors also include the Western Heritage award from the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. Kevin is former Chairman of both the Radio, Television, Digital News Association and the Texas Associated Press Broadcasters where he co-founded the Southwest Broadcast Journalism Conference.

Renea Saade counsels clients on a broad range of employment issues including wage and hour compliance, accommodation and leave requests, enforcement and defense of noncompetition and non-solicitation agreements, workplace investigations, discipline and terminations. Renea also assists clients in the development, revision and enforcement of employee handbooks, policies and contracts and provides onsite employment law training (including training required by the EEOC or a local human rights agency pursuant to a settlement or conciliation agreement) on issues including prevention of harassment and discrimination, hiring dos and don'ts, wage laws and best practices for performance reviews. She regularly represents employers in federal and state court proceedings, agency audits and investigations. While Renea works with employers operating in Alaska and throughout the Pacific Northwest in a variety of industries, she has significant experience working with employers in the industries of construction, government contracting, fishing, retail, non-profit sector and health care and is familiar with the unique challenges and legal issues associated with employing individuals in safety sensitive positions and remote locations. Renea draws upon her skills and experience to keep companies informed on the latest employment law issues through her articles in Alaska Business Monthly and her frequent presentations to a variety of professional organizations, including the Alaska and Anchorage chapters of the Society for Human Resource Management.

Daniel Kirkpatrick is a Co-Managing Member at Fletcher, Heald & Hildreth in Arlington, Virginia. He represents clients on a broad range of regulatory and transactional matters, with a focus on radio and television stations and content producers. Dan has significant expertise in counseling television stations regarding cable and satellite carriage issues, including the negotiation of retransmission consent and other carriage agreements, the enforcement of mandatory carriage, network non-duplication, and syndicated exclusivity rights, and prosecution of market modification proceedings. He counsels broadcast stations on compliance with FCC regulations affecting their day-to-day operations, including political broadcasting rules, content regulation, and advertising. He has assisted numerous radio and television stations with routine and non-routine licensing matters and license renewal proceedings, and has guided broadcast clients through the regulatory and transactional aspects of station purchases, sales, and financings. He is also experienced in negotiating program acquisition and distribution agreements for broadcast and non-broadcast clients, including network affiliation agreements and distribution agreements on traditional MVPD platforms, as well as OTT services. Dan is a graduate of the University of Virginia School of Law (2003) and the College of William and Mary (1998), and is a frequent contributor at www.commlawblog.com.

Sheri Lynch is the force of nature on morning radio. She is one half... an equal half... of the morning duo, Bob & Sheri, which is heard by over 1.1 million adults each week across America and in over 170 countries via Armed Forces Radio. A ratings' winner who came to radio unexpectedly, Sheri is a 'friend' to her listeners. Not only do her listeners follow her on social media (she has over 150,000 followers across social media sites), she follows them to engage in true two-way conversations that break down the fourth wall between the host and the audience. In fact, Sheri's never NOT on social media. Sheri began her radio career when she met Bob Lacey, and he encouraged her – with no previous on-air experience – to join him on mornings at WBT-FM, Charlotte, a then struggling Mainstream AC (now Hot AC WLNK, The Link). Thinking this insane idea would never work, she tapped into her bold and adventurous nature and gave it a try. Right away, the chemistry between them was electric, and Bob & Sheri skyrocketed. Sheri was named one of Radio Ink's Most Influential Women in Radio in 2018 and 2019. A natural-born comedian, Sheri finds the humor in everything in life. She loves people and is genuinely interested in their lives. Her open personality makes it easy for her to connect with listeners on and off the air, whether at a live event or on social media. Those off-air interactions feed into what's on the air, and what happens on-air feeds into the off-air connections. It's a loop that is winning her legions of loyal listeners.

2019 APBI SPEAKER

Erika Pulley-Hayes is Vice President, Radio, at the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and a member of the senior leadership team. In this capacity, she articulates and implements a compelling public service vision for public radio and oversees CPB's Radio grant programs and station relations.

Pulley-Hayes began her career at Warner-Lambert Company, a Fortune 500 pharmaceutical company, where she worked under the general counsel and corporate secretary for eight years. She worked on board of directors' matters, compliance issues for political activity and the Securities and Exchange Commission, and corporate agreements for commercial transactions. Pulley-Hayes later managed legal operations of a national clinical research organization overseeing risk management, corporate housekeeping and commercial contracts generating approximately $40 million each year. Pulley-Hayes is currently pursuing a dual MBA/MA in nonprofit management from the University of Maryland University College. She holds a BA from William Paterson University of New Jersey.
